Date: 8th April 2022.

A complete report on industrial visit organized by Greater Noida Institute of Technology (Engg. Institute) for the students of Computer Science & Engineering [6th SEM] in order to gain the practical knowledge about advanced technology and radar used in weather forecasting, aviation forecasting, flood forecasting, agromet, advisory, etc. at Indian Metrological Department (IMD) in Ministry of Earth Science.

INDEX:

Greater Noida Institute of Technology had organized an industrial visit on 08 April, 2022 to I.M.D located in New Delhi for the students of Computer Science & Engineering.

The visit was organized by the Department of C.S.E.

Prof. Dr. Santosh Srivastava & Prof. Dr. Vibha Oberoi were the coordinators of the Faculty for the industrial visit.

Kuldeep Yadav & Nilesh Kr. Gupta were the co-ordinators students for the visit.

We started traveling from the college campus at 10:00 am via our college bus. Totally 28 students along with 2 faculty were there on the journey.

ORGANIZATION PROFILE

From a modest beginning in 1875, IMD has progressively expanded its infrastructure for meteorological observations, communications, forecasting and weather services and it has achieved a parallel scientific growth. IMD has always used contemporary technology. In the telegraph age, it made extensive use of weather telegrams for collecting observational data and sending warnings. Later IMD became the first organization in India to have a message switching computer for supporting its global data exchange. One of the first few electronic computers introduced in the country was provided to IMD for scientific applications in meteorology. India was the first developing country in the world to have its own geostationary satellite, INSAT, for continuous weather monitoring of this part of the globe and particularly for cyclone warning.

IMD has continuously ventured into new areas of application and service, and steadily built upon its infra-structure in its history of 140 years. It has simultaneously nurtured the growth of meteorology and atmospheric science in India. Today, meteorology in India is poised at the threshold of an exciting future.

GROUP OBSERVATION

At this visit total Four Observations was conducted by IMD

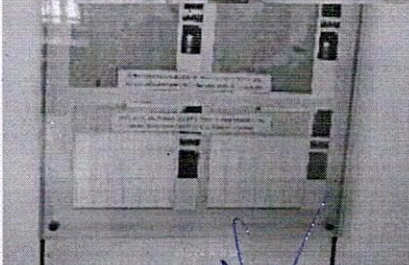

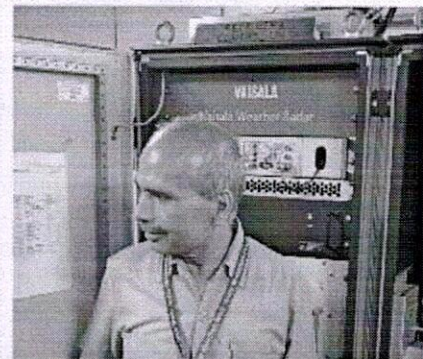

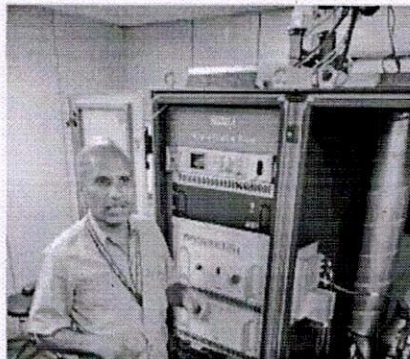

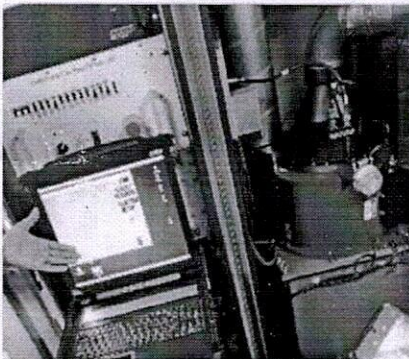

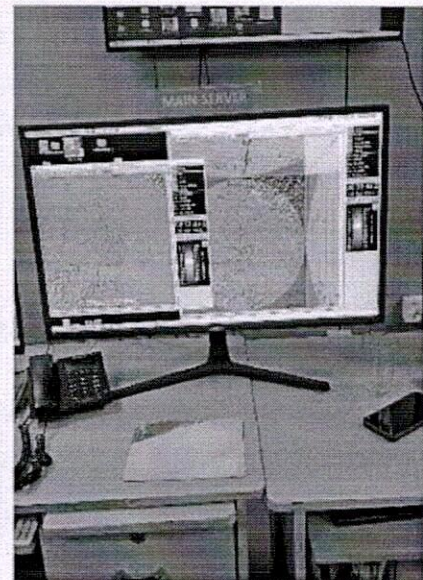

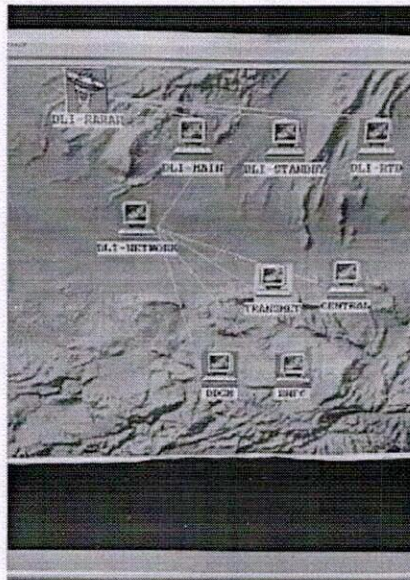

1. Satellite Metrology Division
2. National Ozone Centre
3. National Weather Forecasting Centre

HIGHLIGHTERS:

1. Students get to learn more about the insides of the company their alumni are a part of. They have the opportunity to ask more questions and learn better from their Alumni work experience. Alumni's provide career guidance and encouragement in academic developments, which become a strong foundation for their professional careers. Work experience gives an insight into the profession the students are going to venture into and also a smart way to prepare for the tactics they'll have to face and get used to.
2. Alumni's can help a student establish more contacts from the beginning, later helping them in their lives. Contacts help you to establish contacts with numerous field experts.
3. Students get to understand the semantics of professionalism. A Alumni's program is an excellent plethora of such opportunities. Students idealize their mentors and get a perception of who they wish to be six years down the line.
4. The motivation levels increase as the students become part of the Alumni programs. Students, on getting guidance and direction, become more enthusiastic about whom they wish to become. They have their idols guiding them all the way through in a Alumni's program, and so they feel motivated to do the same in the future.
5. Students become self-aware. They understand what they should be doing and whatnot. They also get a better perspective of the field. They channel their time and energy efficiently. They do not indulge in time-consuming activities, which are not going to benefit them anyhow. They try to find creative ways to accomplish their goals.
6. Alumni's become a part of your sounding plan. You have someone to discuss your ideas with. You have an edge for improvement. If your plan has chances of going wrong somewhere, you have someone to discuss and improvise it.
7. Students get a wider perspective of industrial standards. They get a closer look into the workings of an industry they are soon going to be a part of.
8. They get advanced knowledge of how to strike a balance between work and personal life. The entire schedule becomes hectic, so having knowledge of the chaos and how to maintain peace with it is necessary. Who could be better to provide them with the proficiency they seek other than their Alumni's.

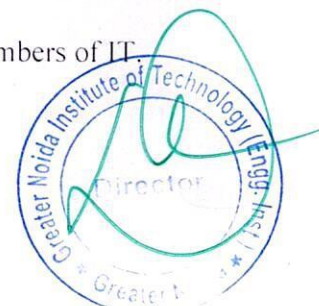

9. Getting your desired job is not enough, you'll be earning money, but if you don't know how to manage it, then it certainly will find its way out sooner than it came. Money management is one such exceptional part of alumni mentorship programs.
10. Professional growth is not easy. It takes a lot of time and hard work. But if you already know the tactics, it gets simpler for you. Alumni membership programs are excellent forums to train you in the domain.
11. Alumni mentorship programs will help the alumni to connect with their alma mater. And you never know if they become your recruiters. Thus the entire system could benefit from the entire process. Alumni Mentorship is one such promising program for students, institutions, and alumni.

The Event was Hosted by Ms. Uma Tomar (Assistant Professor, IT) and vote of thanks by Dr. Ajay Kumar Sahu (Associate Professor, Information Technology)

The session was attended by more than 100 students and all faculty members of IT.
