Counselling for Women

College counselling strives to improve one's depth and quality of life while fostering well-being, assisting with intellectual and emotional growth, being more content and productive, and assisting in developing a deeper understanding of oneself. The purpose of counselling is to help students deal with various issues, including ones that are academic, personal, emotional, familial, or peer-related.

A women's counsellor has been appointed by GNIOT (Engineering Institute) to support female students, handle all issues about women, and create a safe environment on campus for female students and faculty.

The objectives of women's counselling are as follows:

- To encourage, support, and defend the feminine gender. Its goal is to advance the overall well-being and professional advancement of the college's female faculty, staff, and students.
- To Identify and cultivate women's leadership potential as well as progressives and strong leaders.
- To support a society that values and treats women equally.
- To train the ladies and hold seminars and workshops to inform them of the opportunities and resources available.
- To foster an entrepreneurial mindset in young girls as early as possible so that they can be "job givers" rather than "job takers."
- To educate women on the fact that strong, educated women are less likely to become victims of domestic violence, sexual assault, and other forms of abuse.
- To foster a counselling-friendly environment and encourage female students to share their issues with teachers openly.
